This is a six-course Italian dinner featuring select recipes from the Batali family. Join us for an awesome and exciting evening of food, wine and friends. Date will be determined by host/attendee schedules.

The Batali family has a deep history and tradition around food. In 1903, Angelo Sebastian Merlino, my great-grandfather, moved from Yakima and opened the first Italian grocery store in Seattle near Pioneer Square. His daughter, Leonette (Grandma) Batali was my true inspiration for cooking. She would prepare incredible multi-course meals for my cousins that included ravioli, gnocchi, Salumi, tomato sauce, oxtails and Tiramisu. Grandma taught me, “food is love”! In 1992, Uncle Armandino opened Salumi in Pioneer Square and began serving artisan crafted, cured pork products. My father Dino was also an amazing cook whose specialties were sausage, pizzelle’s and Lemoncello. And in 1994, my cousin Mario Batali opened a small restaurant in New York City called Pó and created a business for himself in the food industry. We hope you can join us!

Sample Menu (with paired wines/ liquors): Antipasto Freddo (marinated vegetables, cheese, Salumi), Antipasto Caldo (artichokes and bruschetta), Ensalata (radicchio balsamic greens), Secondi (pasta with Italian cream sauce), Primo (Coq Au Vin with risotto) and Dolce (Italian cookie with gelato)
